

THE EXTRAORDINARY LIFE OF 'ABDU'L-BAHÁ

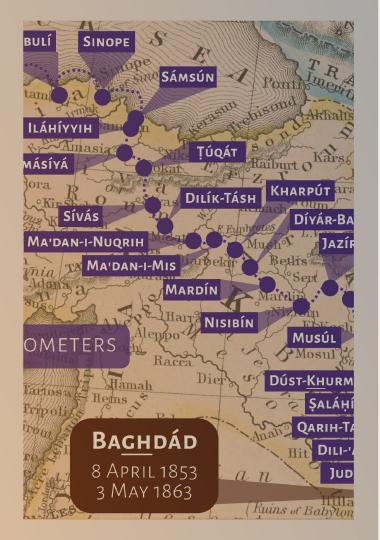

the slideshow

This slideshow is a condensed version of the nine-part, 400-page, 900-photos & graphics online chronology created for the Centenary entitled "The Extraordinary Life of 'Abdu'l-Bahá."

PLEASE DOWNLOAD THIS PRESENTATION IN PDF FORMAT, NOT POWERPOINT, AS IT WILL CORRUPT ALL THE FORMATTING.

Please visit the chronology for many more stories, maps and photos:

https://theutteranceproject.com/the-extraordinary-life-of-abdul-baha/

1844 - 1868 THE FOUR EXILFS

That Same Night SHÍRÁZ & ŢIHRÁN

23 May 1844

This is the city of Shíráz, in Persia taken in 1906. Today is 23 May 1844, and a momentous event is about to take place...

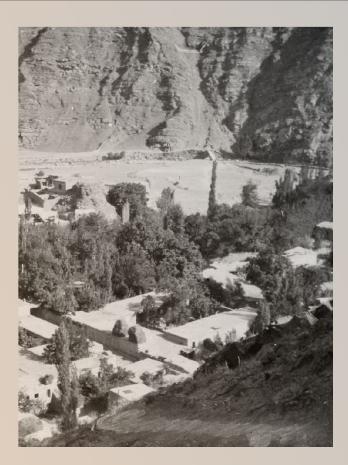

In this room of His house, in the hour preceding sunset, the Báb discloses to Mullá Husayn that He is the Promised One, come to prepare the way for a new Manifestation of God.

Six hours after the birth of the Bahá'í religion, the perfect exemplar of its teachings is born in Țihrán, 900 kilometers/570 miles away. Mírzá Ḥusayn 'Alí (the One heralded by the Báb who will later be known as Bahá'u'lláh) and his wife Navváb name the child 'Abbás. He will later be known as 'Abdu'l–Bahá.

a This sentence was written from Washington by me at the Baltimore Terminus at 8th 45 min. on Friday May 24? 1844, being the first transmitted from Washington to Baltimore, and was indited by my much loved friend Annie G. Ellsworth .. Sam! F. B. Morder Superintendent of Elec. Mag. Telegraphs .-

Twenty-four hours later and 10,000 km/6,000 mi away, in Washington D.C., the very first long-distance message is transmitted by telegraph to Baltimore. The birth of modern communications heralds a new age for mankind.

Childhood MÁZINDARÁN & ŢIHRÁN

Born into a noble family, 'Abdu'l-Bahá enjoys a comfortable life in both Țihrán and Mazindárán, which this picture depicts. It is in this rural setting that the story of 'Abdu'l-Bahá gifting sheep to shepherds at a country barbecue takes place.

After a failed attempt by half-crazed Bábís on the life of the Sháh, reprisals are severe. Baháu'lláh, the son of a Minister who became one of the foremost members of the Bábí community is especially attacked: He is tortured by bastinado, and He is chained and walked through the streets, while Navváb and the children, now penniless, struggle to survive while agonizing over Bahá'u'lláh's fate. (The engraving below depicts bastinado, lashing of a person's feet, a prevalent form of torture in Persian at the time).

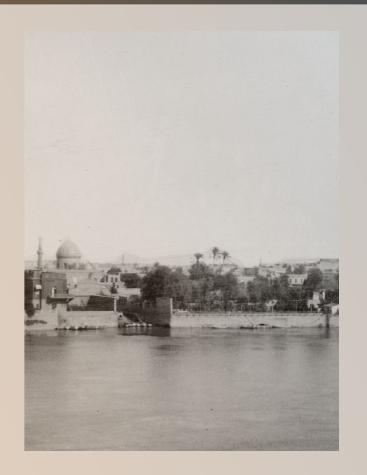

In August 1852, Baháu'lláh is thrown into Persia's most notorious dungeon, the Siyáh–Chál, a vermin–infested pestilential hell reserved for the worst of criminals, shown here in later years. It is in these conditions that Bahá'u'lláh receives the Revelation indicating that He is the One heralded by the Báb. He tells no one.

The First Exile

BAGHDÁD

In the dead of a freezing winter and with inadequate clothing, Baháu'lláh and His family are exiled 1,000 km/600 mi to Baghdád. Navváb is pregnant during this harrowing ordeal, and 'Abdu'l–Bahá suffers frostbite.

Soon after arriving in April 1853, the venomous rancor and jealousy in the leaderless Bábí community of Baghdád force Bahá'u'lláh to remove Himself from Baghdád and retreat to the mountains of Kurdistán (left) under the guise of a dervish. The kashkúl, alms bowl, pictured to the right belonged to Bahá'u'lláh.

When Bahá'u'lláh returns to Baghdád in 1856, 'Abdu'l-Bahá is nearly a teenager. At 14, He frequents mosques and gives masterful interpretations of Quranic verses. His love for the poor is already present, as, during His years in Baghdád, He visits the home of a humble thornpicker (bottom right), whose wife serves a burnt cake, a memory He cherishes for decades. (Photo on the right shows thornpickers in Baghdád in the early 20th century)

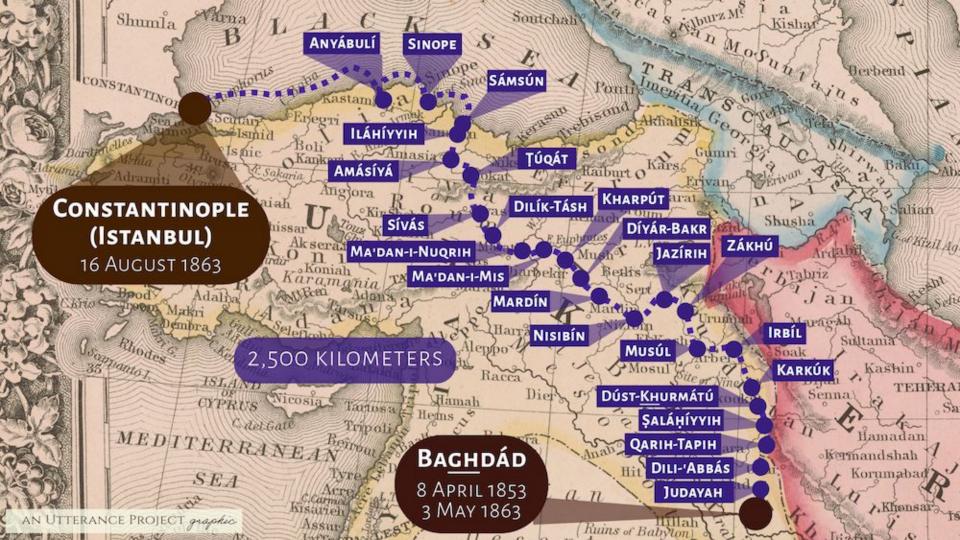

Before their second exile to the heart of the Ottoman Empire, Bahá'u'lláh publicly reveals His mission during the twelve days in April 1863 known as the "Ridván Festival." the photograph above shows the Ridván garden in Baghdád. Photo from the early 20th century.

Second and Third Exiles

CONSTANTINOPLE & ADRIANOPLE

During the extremely long journey, the Holy Family camps more than sixty times in caravanserais and tents. The women travel in howdas, pictured above, and 'Abdu'l-Bahá, now 19 years old, ensures provisions for the people and the nearly sixty animals of the caravan.

Bahá'u'lláh and His family arrive in Constantinople (Istanbul) in August 1863, and are again exiled four months later to Adrianople (Edirne).

Photo: Courtesy of Necati Alkan

The journey to Adrianople is the shortest the Holy Family will travel during Their exiles, but this journey in the midst of the coldest winter in forty years, is by far the worst, nearly costing them all their lives. 'Abdu'l-Bahá again suffers from frostbite.

Genaschere

A.brarby

Demanli

Adrianople

(Edirne)

~ 274 KM

Tebidohe

Esta Zaobr

Turali

Tek

Tchatal

Tchirpan

Maiali

Ouzounjova

Khas-Kenio

tja ou Lia

Parchadar

Dapa

mai

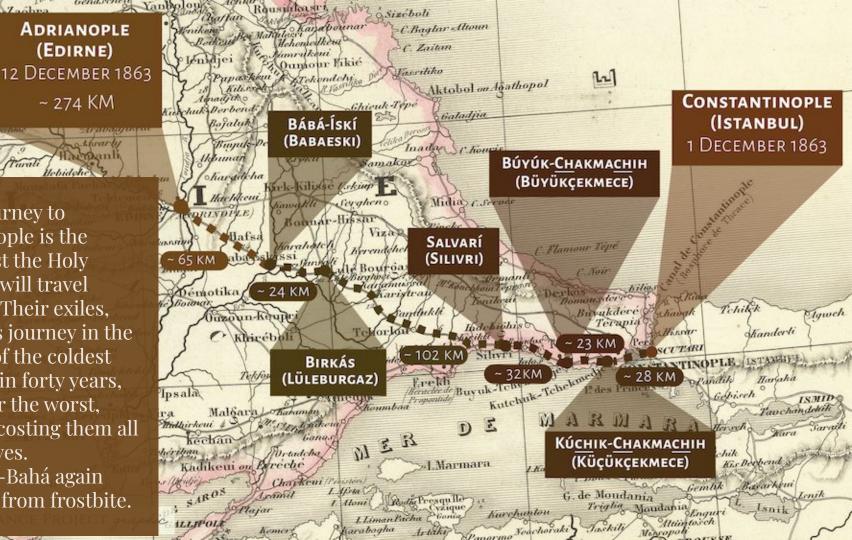

63

ab

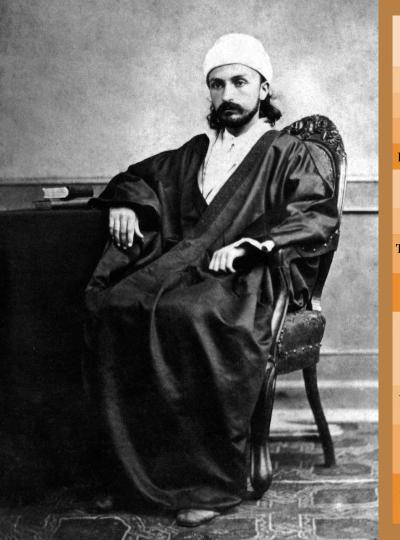

ires Pote

80

igo

Bahá'u'lláh and His family live in Adrianople for four years. Here, Baha'u'lláh sends His letters to the world's rulers and religious leaders. 'Abdu'l-Bahá is His father's shield, His secretary, and cares for His mother and younger siblings, Mírzá Miḥdi and Bahíyyih Khánum.

The Súriy-i-Ghușn

This sacred and glorious Being This Branch of Holiness The Limb of the Law of God He is the most great Favour unto you This sublime, this blessed, this mighty, this exalted Handiwork The most perfect bounty upon you Through Him every mouldering bone is quickened Whoso turneth towards Him hath turned towards God He is the Trust of God amongst you, His charge within you, His manifestation unto you and His appearance among His favoured servants.

We have sent Him down in the form of a human temple.

They who deprive themselves of the shadow of the Branch are lost in the wilderness of error

Hasten to enter beneath the shadow of God, that it may shield you from the blazing heat of this Day This is the first photograph we have of 'Abdu'l-Bahá taken in Adrianople, sometime between 1864 – 1868, when He was 24 – 28.

At some point in Adrianople, Bahá'u'lláh, still at the very start of His own ministry. reveals the Súriy-i-Ghusn, the Tablet of the Branch where He partly unveils the station of 'Abdu'l-Bahá. To the left are the terms employed by Bahá'u'lláh to refer to 'Abdu'l-Bahá in this Tablet.

The Final Exile 'AKKÁ

After four years in Adrianople, Bahá'u'lláh is exiled to the farthest ADRIANOPLE reaches of the Ottoman Empire, the penal colony of 'Akká. The UZÚN-KÚPRÚ KÁSHÁNIH Austrian Lloyd steamer the Holy Family traveled on would have GALLIPOLI looked a lot like this watercolor below. mouse MADELLÍ Anglora no Chilling 5 DISTANCE: aemach Shusha ~ 1,800 KILOMETERS DEPARTURE FROM ADRIANOPLE: hizil Agatch laty Abiverd Mush 12 AUGUST 1868 Diarbeld > Betlis ARRIVAL IN 'AKKÁ: Sefid Rood Jan rfah A Mardin 31 AUGUST 1868 Maragah Balla Urumah abad Nizibin Standing Latald VIT ISLAND CYPRUS Nicosia Tartosal C del Gal Tripali MIDITERRANE. SEA HAIF 20 d.Sea ALEXANDRIA PORT SAID MHOT Ghizeh Akaba AN UTTERANCE PROJECT graphic oDarabi Sarepta CH. Meron HOLV LAND

Once Bahá'u'lláh, His family and their companions arrive in 'Akká, they are inside a prison-city. Many will perish inside these walls, almost all will become gravely ill, and those who survive will suffer untold pain.

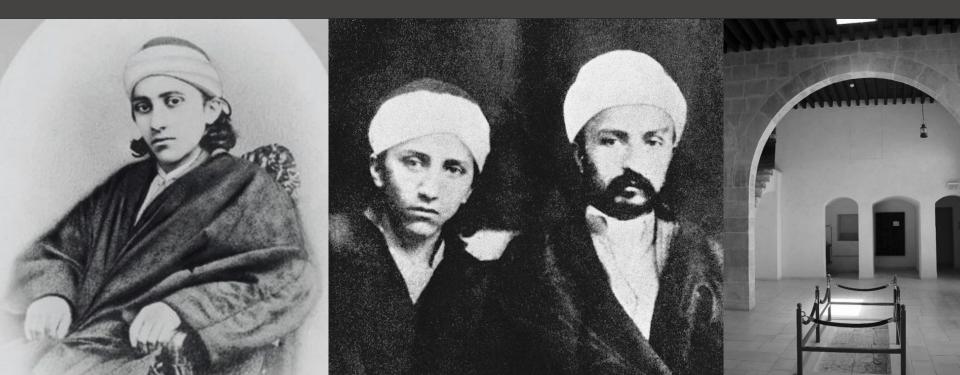

1868 - 1877

THE MOST GREAT PRISON

Inside the Barracks

Soon after their arrival in the barracks, typhoid, fever and dysentery break out and 'Abdu'l-Bahá single-handedly nurses the sixty exiles back to health. When they are recovered, He falls ill and nearly dies. One June 22, 1870, Mírzá Mihdí paces up and down the roof of the barracks, deep in meditation and prayer. On this tragic day, he does not remember to count his steps, as he usually does in order to avoid an open skylight. He falls and lands on a crate, which pierces his chest. The death of 'Abdu'l-Bahá's younger brother is a devastating blow to the whole family.

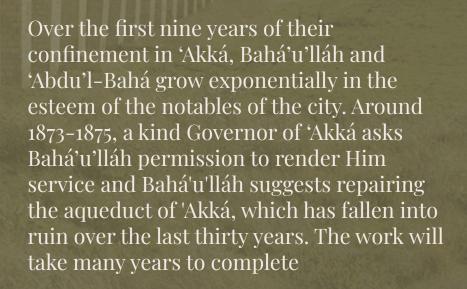

Life in 'Akká

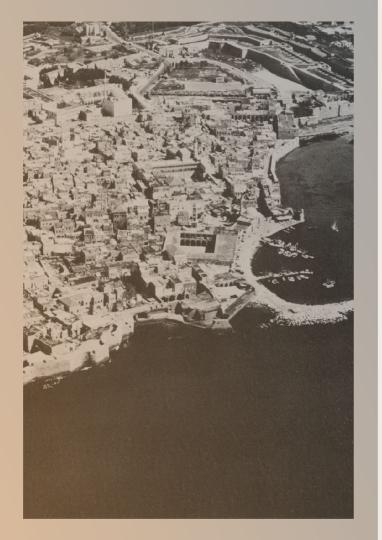

In October 1870, the movement of troops within the Ottoman Empire forces the authorities of 'Akká to requisition the barracks for military use, Bahá'u'lláh and His wife and daughter move from house to house until they arrive at the House of 'Abbúd (left), but 'Abdu'l-Bahá moves to the Khán-i-Avamíd, a caravanserai (right), living in abominable conditions as He makes reparations to the rooms which will accommodate Bahá'í pilgrims when they start arriving.

On 8 March 1873, 'Abdu'l-Bahá marries Munírih Khánum, whom Bahá'u'lláh had seen in a dream with a luminous face ("Munírih" means luminous, and was a title Bahá'u'lláh bestowed on her). Munírih Khánum will have nine children with 'Abdu'l-Bahá, of whom five will die in the poisonous air of 'Akká, and their marriage will last 48 years (1873-1921) until 'Abdu'l-Bahá passes away. In her memoirs, Munírih Khánum remembers the months before her marriage, when she would watch 'Abdu'l-Bahá swim in the Mediterranean Sea. The photo below is of the coast of 'Akká.

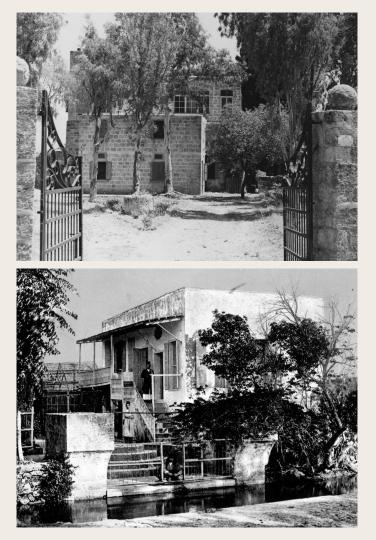

AAAA

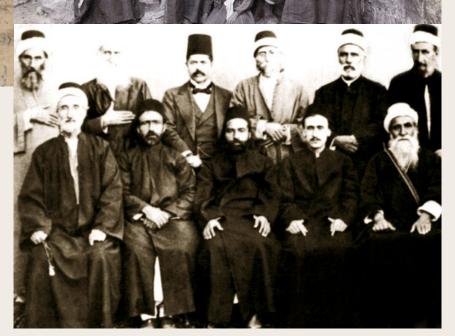

1877 - 1892 THE MASTER OF 'AKKÁ

In 1877, 'Abdu'l-Bahá succeeds in convincing Bahá'u'lláh to retire to the countryside. Bahá'u'lláh, who had commented that He had not seen green in nearly a decade, now lives surrounded by plants, flowers, grass, and fruit trees, all lovingly arranged by 'Abdu'l-Bahá. (the Mansion of Mazra'ih, the garden of Riḍván, and the Mansion of Bahjí.)

While Bahá'u'lláh is in the countryside, 'Abdu'l-Bahá remains in 'Akká, He counsels notables and religious leaders (similar to those in the top left photo), serves the population of 'Akká, who line up to speak with Him in the early hours of every morning (A photo of Palestinians around the early 20th century in the top right photo). But 'Abdu'l-Bahá also shoulders responsibilities to free Bahá'u'lláh and manages the influx of pilgrims (bottom-right photo)

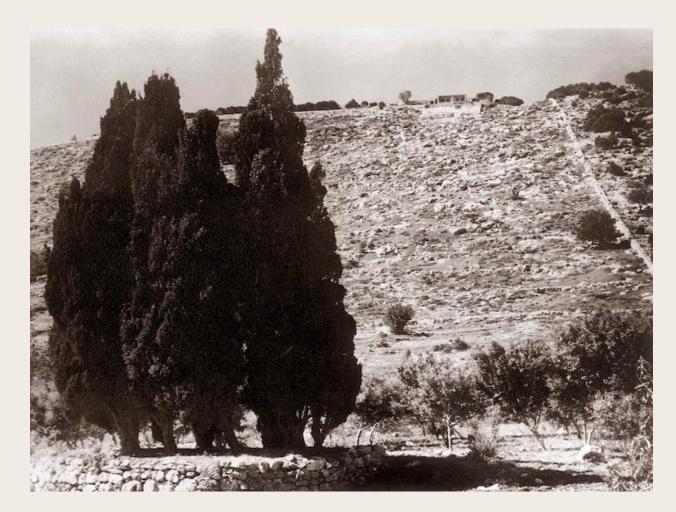

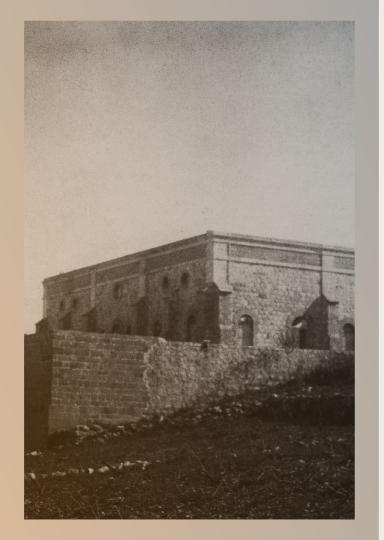

Although He is still a prisoner of the Ottoman Empire, 'Abdu'l-Bahá is allowed to travel to Beirut , Lebanon (pictured below), at the invitation of the Governor. It is on this occasion, in June 1880, that Bahá'u'lláh pens another Tablet on 'Abdu'l-Bahá's station, the Lawh-i-'Ard-i-Bá ('Tablet of the Land of Bá)

'Abdu'l-Bahá suffers three devastating losses in close succession: the death of His saintly mother Navváb in 1886, and His steadfast and loyal uncle Mírzá Músá in 1887, and His beloved son Ḥusayn.

During a visit to Haifa in June 1891, one year exactly before Bahá'u'lláh's passing, Bahá'u'lláh stands at this grove of young cypresses and indicates to 'Abdu'l-Bahá the precise spot where He should build the Shrine of the Báb. (Photo of the mature cypress grove, more than ten years later)

1892 - 1910 CENTER OF

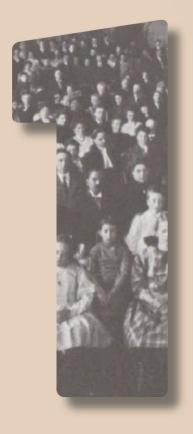

CENTER OF THE COVENANT

When Bahá'u'lláh passes away on 29 May 1892, 'Abdu'l-Bahá inters His sacred remains in what is to become the Shrine of Bahá'u'lláh, the holiest spot in the world for Bahá'ís. In His Will and Testament, Bahá'u'lláh appoints 'Abdu'l-Bahá the Center of the Covenant. It is on His shoulders that rest the safety and growth of the Bahá'í Faith, the wellbeing of the worldwide community. 'Abdu'l-Bahá is the one who must see to immediate concerns and possess long-term vision, qualities He will demonstrate time and again in His 29-year ministry.

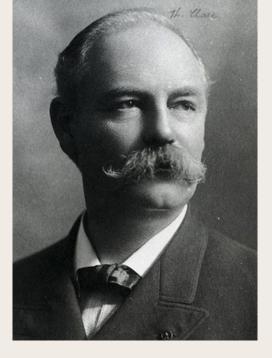

The Three Chief Objectives of 'Abdu'l-Bahá's Ministry

As to the three aims which Shoghi Effendi has stated in his "America and the Most Great Peace" to have been the chief objectives of 'Abdu'l-Baha's ministry, it should be pointed out that the first was the establishment of the Cause in America. The erection of the Baha'i Temple in Ishqabad, and the building on Mt. Carmel of a mausoleum marking the resting-place of the Bab, were the two remaining ones.

> Letter dated 14 December 1933 on behalf of Shoghi Effendi to the National spiritual Assembly of the United States and Canada

The Establishment of the Bahá'í Faith in the West

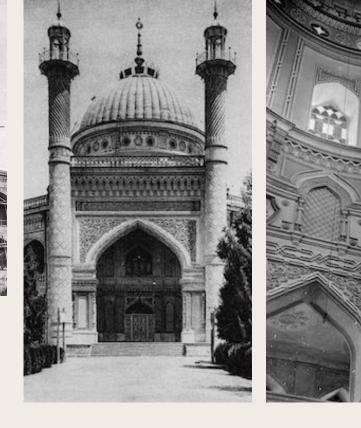

Thornton Chase (left) becomes the first American Bahá'í in 1894. Four years later, the first groups of Western Pilgrims start arriving in 'Akká to meet 'Abdu'l-Bahá (center). Thanks to 'Abdu'l-Bahá's patient encouragement, nine years later, on 21 March 1909, the same day 'Abdu'l-Bahá lays the Báb's remains to rest, the first United States National Convention is held (right).

Erecting the Bahá'í House of Worship in 'Ishqábád

In 1893, the design is approved. Ground is broken in 1902, construction is partially complete in 1907, and completed in 1919.

Building the Shrine of the Báb

The map indicates the journey of the remains of the Báb to the Holy Land starting in 1898 – 1899. Top and bottom right: the marble sarcophagus completed in Burma and the crate in the Holy Land. Bottom left and center: the shrine completed in 1909. 'Abdu'l-Bahá laid the remains of the Báb to rest on 21 March 1909. In 'Abdu'l-Bahá's words: "Every stone of that building, every stone of the road leading to it, I have with infinite tears and at tremendous cost, raised and placed in position."

Crisis and Victory

1892 - 1910

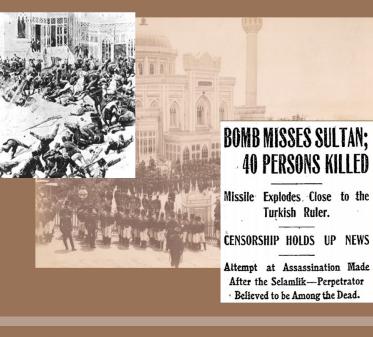

'Abdu'l-Bahá fosters the growth of the Persian Bahá'í community and in 1899, the world's first Local Spiritual Assembly is elected in Tihrán. Among the members are the four Hands of the Cause appointed by Baha'u'llah, three of whom are seated in the middle row from left: Mírzá Hasan, known as Adíb (1848–1919); Mírzá 'Alí-Muhammad, known as Ibn-i-Aşdaq (d.1928); and Hájí Mullá 'Alí-Akbar (known as Hájí Ákhund), (1842–1910).

For the complete list, see:

The Extraordinary Life of 'Abdu'l-Bahá Part 4

1892 – 1905 are perilous years. There are attempts on the life of 'Abdu'l-Bahá, His jealous enemies spread horrifying rumors about Him and the Shrine, and 'Abdu'l-Bahá is re-incarcerated within the city.

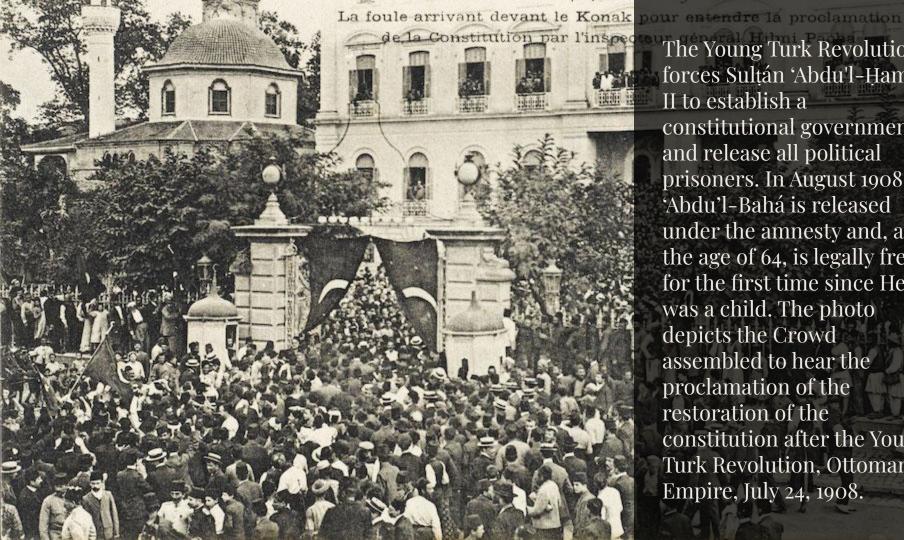

The danger culminates when Ârif Bey is dispatched as the head of the Commission of Inquiry in July 1905. He wants to hang 'Abdu'l-Bahá or exile Him to Fízan, in Libya.

After several days of intense interrogation, the commission is suddenly recalled after an assassination attempt against the Sultan.

One cannot understate how dangerous these years were. 'Abdu'l-Bahá Himself says: "I am now in very great danger and the hope of even an hour's life is lost to me." It is at this time that 'Abdu'l-Bahá pens His Will and Testament in three documents between 1901 – 1907, appoint Shoghi Effendi, His eldest grandson, then a child of 4–11 years old, as His successor and Guardian of the Cause of God. Between 1901 and 1907, 'Abdu'l-Bahá purchases thousands of acres of farmland in 'Adasiyyíh and three other farming villages in the Yarmuk and Jordan river valleys, and coordinates with the Local Spiritual Assembly of Tihrán for Persian farmers to emigrate to these lands and grow crops.

The Young Turk Revolution forces Sultán 'Abdu'l-Hamíd II to establish a constitutional government and release all political prisoners. In August 1908, 'Abdu'l-Bahá is released under the amnesty and, at the age of 64, is legally free for the first time since He was a child. The photo depicts the Crowd assembled to hear the proclamation of the restoration of the constitution after the Young Turk Revolution, Ottoman Empire, July 24, 1908.

memarkable, Varied

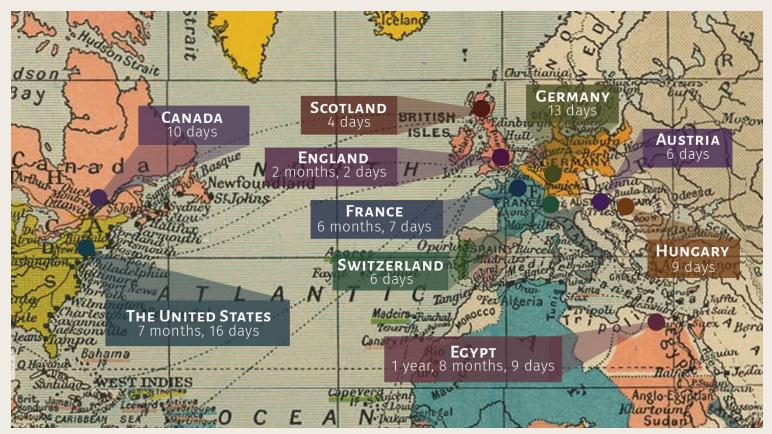

1910) - 1913

JOURNEYS TO THE WEST EGYPT, EUROPE & AMERICA

Two years after gaining His freedom, 'Abdu'l-Bahá leaves the Holy land with utmost discretion and embarks on His herculean journey to cement the establishment of the Faith in the West. Shoghi Effendi will call this, "the most outstanding achievement that will forever be associated with 'Abdu'l-Bahá's ministry."

For three years, 'Abdu'l-Bahá will unceasingly travel and speak in public and private meetings in almost a hundred cities in ten countries, and meet some of the most famous intellectuals, businessmen and politicians of many walks of life and nationality. He will serve the poor in almost every country He visits, and will transform hearts and uplift souls everywhere he goes.

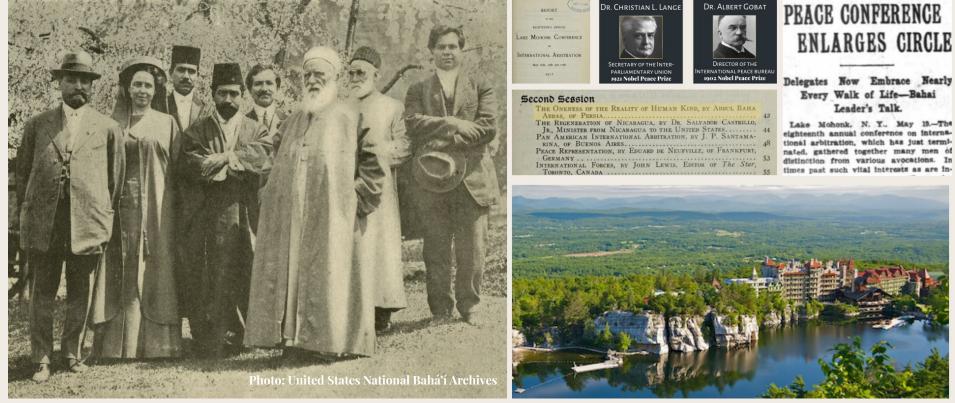

Race unity is one of 'Abdu'l-Bahá's most beloved issues, and He ceaselessly encourages the American believers to foster unity between Baha'is of European background and their black brothers and sisters. 'Abdu'l-Bahá organizes two Unity Feasts in the United States, speaks at Howard University, an all-African-American institution, and warmly encourages the first interracial Bahá'í marriage. It was between Louis Gregory and Louisa Mathew.

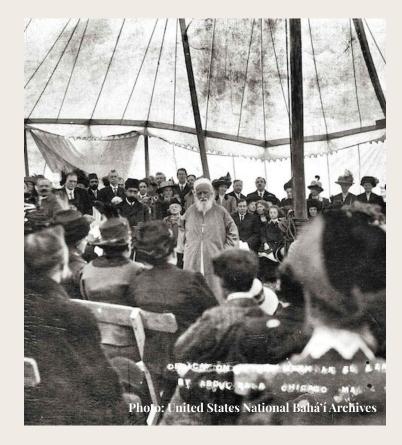

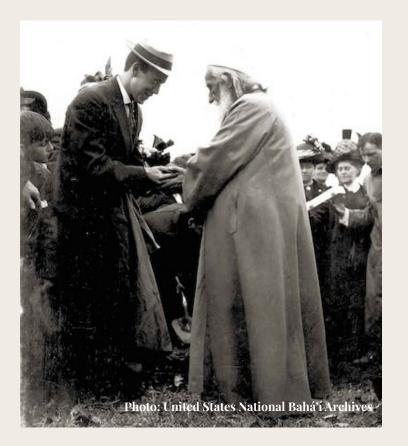

'Abdu'l-Bahá seeks out meaningful encounters with the humble and the poor in every country He visited. Poor children in Paris, the men at the Bowery mission in New York, Fred Mortensen who "rode the rails" in Green Acre, the men at a Salvation Army Shelter and working single mothers in London, and children in Edinburgh.

During His journeys, 'Abdu'l-Bahá will unceasingly call for peace and condemn the war He warns is coming. This is such a feature of His travels that many articles nickname 'Abdu'l-Bahá "the Apostle of Peace." While in the United States, He attends the foremost peace conference at Lake Mohonk (where two Nobel Peace Prize laureates are present), and gives a speech the second night. One of the most significant events of 'Abdu'l-Bahá's journeys to the West is the laying of the cornerstone for the Mother Temple of North America in Wilmette on May 1, 1912.

Places where 'Abdu'l-Bahá spoke: Top row: City Temple in London where 'Abdu'l-Bahá gives the first public address of His life; the stairs to Rue de Camoëns where a large portion of Paris Talks were given; Plymouth Congregational Church in Chicago, (see The Promulgation of Universal Peace for the address) and Temple Emmanu-El in San Francisco. Bottom row: Stanford University, Oxford University and the mosque in Woking, England.

This iconic photo of 'Abdu'l-Bahá under the Eiffel Tower with a large number of Eastern men is a perfect illustration for 'Abdu'l-Bahá's last long stay in Paris, where He attended an extraordinary number of meetings with Persian, Ottoman and Egyptian diplomats, all congregated in the city for various summits. The graphic on the next page is a glimpse of this intensity, with a list of meetings for a single diplomat, the Persian ambassador, during 'Abdu'l-Bahá's stay in Paris in Spring of 1913.

'Abdu's-Samad Khán's ENCOUNTERS WITH 'Abdu'l-Bahá (in 1913)

- 24 January 'Abdu'l-Bahá sends Persians to visit ASK on His behalf
- 27 January ASK vists 'Abdu'l-Bahá
- 28 January 'Abdu'l-Bahá visits ASK
- 1 February Dinner at the Dreyfus home
- 9 February ASK visits 'Abdu'l-Bahá
- 19 February ASK visits 'Abdu'l-Bahá
- 27 February - 'Abdu'l-Bahá visits ASK
- 5 March 'Abdu'l-Bahá visits ASK
- 11 March 'Abdu'l-Bahá visits ASK
- 16 March ASK visits 'Abdu'l-Bahá
- 21 March Naw-Rúz at the Embassy
- 12 May 'Abdu'l-Bahá visits ASK
- 13 May ASK visits 'Abdu'l-Bahá

Abu'l-Qásim Khán (Násiru'l-Mulk)

TAOIZADEH

NAJAF-QULÍ KHÁN,

SAMSÁMU'S-SALTANIH

KHẢN

GHAFFARÍ

Sulțán-Husayn Mírzá (Jalálu'd-Dawlih)

MÍR SIYYID MUHAMMAD (Intizámu's-Saltanih)

THE BROTHER OF THE KHEDIVE OF EGYPT

OTTOMAN DIPLOMATS

SÂLIH MÜNÎR Sezaî

PRINCE MUHAMMAD 'ALI BEY

'Abdu'l-Bahá's visit to Germany enchants Him, both the beauty of the believers' spirits, and the beauty of Spring. In Scotland, bottom left, and Hungary, bottom center, 'Abdu'l-Bahá visits countries that have respectively one and no Bahá'ís. In Austria, 'Abdu'l-Bahá meets with the first Nobel Peace Prize Laureate, Baroness Von Suttner, pictured in the photo on the right.

'Abdu'l-Bahá's journey is a decidedly modern one. His voice is recorded in New York and Budapest, two films are made of Him in New York, including the one in Brooklyn (left), and the only color portrait we have of Him is made in Paris by Valentin Vaucamps (right).

Disclaimer: attendance figures are estimates from research by Earl Redman and Dariush Lamy

550 Public Talks in 96 Cities

Media Reach

Disclaimer: readership figures are estimates from research by Amín Egea

1,700 Articles in 800 Newspapers

Total estimated attendance

120,000

Total estimated readership

28,000,000

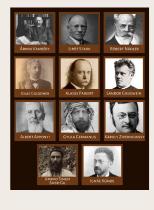

Among personalities encountered by 'Abdu'l-Bahá during His travels are world-famous scientists, explorers, politicians, writers and artists (Kahlil Gibran, W.E.B. Du Bois, the brother of the Khedive of Egypt, Felix Moscheles, Henri Bergson...) Please see the "Prominent Personalities" sections in The Extraordinary Life of 'Abdu'l-Bahá Part 7 for more information.

ENGLAND

HUNGARY

FRANCE

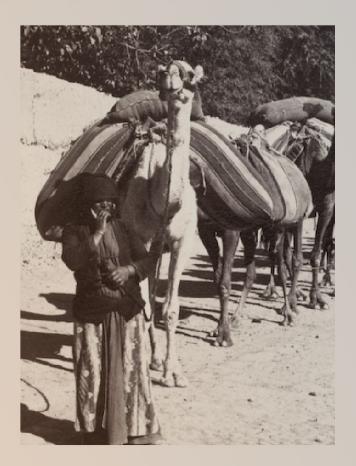

EGYPT

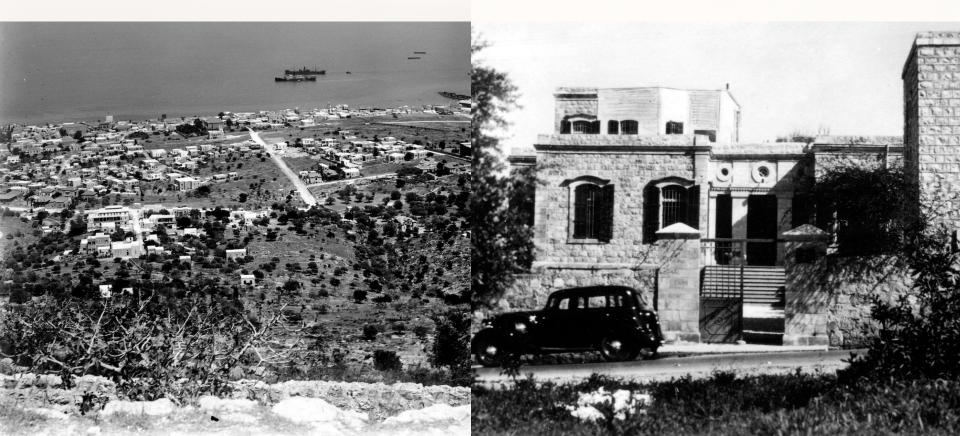

1913 - 1921 THE HOLY LAND

THE WAR YEARS

1914 - 1918

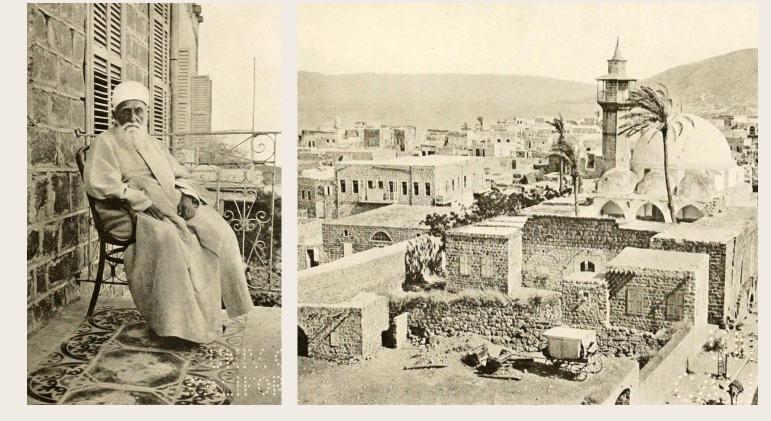

'Abdu'l-Bahá finally returns home (right) on 5 December 1913, after a three-year absence. After a few weeks spent with His family, around the Shrines of the Báb and Bahá'u'lláh, and calling on friends in Haifa and 'Akká, 'Abdu'l-Bahá spends a month in and around the Jordan Valley.

An undated photograph showing all the women of the Holy Family with pilgrim and resident women. From left to right, seated in the middle row: * Munavvar Khánum ('Abdu'l-Bahá and Munírih Khánum's fourth daughter); * Túbá Khánum ('Abdu'l-Bahá and Munírih Khánum's second daughter); * Bahíyyih Khánum, the Greatest Holy Leaf and Sister of 'Abdu'l-Bahá; * Munírih Khánum, 'Abdu'l-Bahá's wife for 50 years; * Díyá'íyyih Khánum ('Abdu'l-Bahá and Munírih Khánum's first daughter and the mother of Shoghi Effendi); * Rúḥá Khánum, ('Abdu'l-Bahá and Munírih Khánum's third daughter)

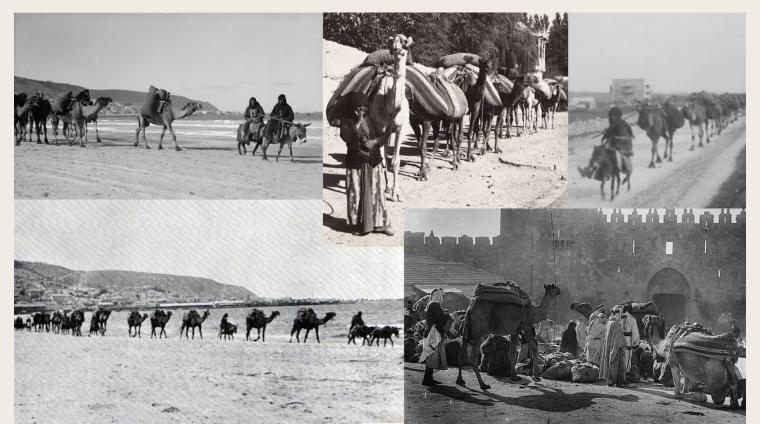

This rare photograph of 'Abdu'l-Bahá in Tiberias in June 1914, sitting on His balcony overlooking the Sea of Galilee was taken by E. M. Newman (see The Extraordinary Life of Labdu'l-Bahá Part VIII for more information). 'Abdu'l-Bahá often visited Tiberias, and He loved the association the place had with the ministry of Jesus Christ.

On top of the shortages due to the war, and an unusually-bad harvest caused by a drought, Lebanon, Syria and Jordan are descended upon by a swarm of millions of locusts that devour absolutely everything. Close to 500,000 people die of hunger, including half the population of Lebanon. 'Abdu'l-Bahá fights throughout the war to avert famine in the 'Akká-Haifa area. All these photos are from the Library of Congress collection on the 1915 locust plague in Palestine.

During the entirety of the war, 'Abdu'l–Bahá will spend days and weeks in the Jordan (pictured here in modern times) and Yarmuk valleys in his four agricultural enterprises, buying all the wheat and corn He can find (some of which He Himself had stored underground in Roman pits and had been saved from the locusts). 'Abdu'l-Bahá single-handedly and brilliantly manages the logistics of sourcing wheat and corn, expediting it via hundreds of camel loads (the same types of camel caravans pictured here), and overseeing the efficient distribution of the wheat in a fair and equitable manner, with the help of trusted associates.

The British army advances quickly through Palestine, capturing Beersheba, Jaffa, Jerusalem, and Jericho in the Spring of 1918 and finally Haifa in a single afternoon on 23 September 1918, with a heroic victory by the two squadrons of Indian lancers (pictured below) who captured the entire city with only 8 casualties, on horseback and armed with lances.

THE YEARS OF PRESTIGE

1918 - 1921

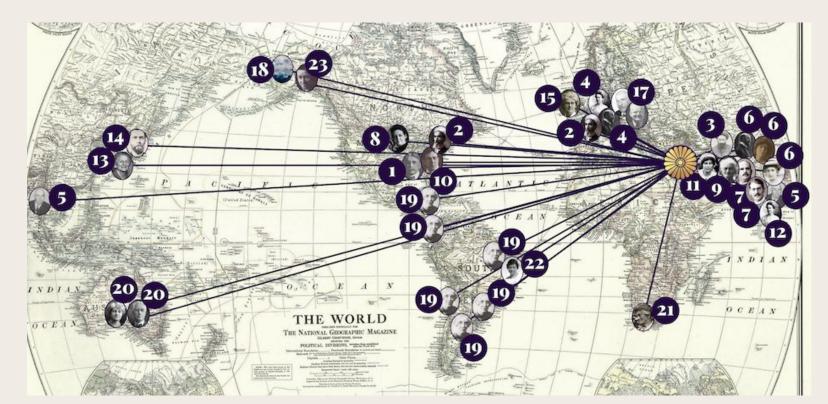

The first photograph of 'Abdu'l–Bahá after the War, in late 1918, with a British Officer in Bahjí. For two years, from 1918 to 1920, His grandson, Shoghi Effendi, learns at 'Abdu'l-Bahá's side. He is 'Abdu'l-Bahá's secretary, constantly at His side, following every instruction. Soon after the end of the war, eastern and western pilgrims return (collage).

During the War, in the springs of 1916 and 1917, 'Abdu'l-Bahá revealed 14 Tablets of the Divine Plan, one of the three charters of the Administrative Order of the Faith. Shoghi Effendi will dedicate His ministry to implementing the provisions of the Tablets, our very first Plan, and 102 years later, we are also continuing to implement the Plan 'Abdu'l-Bahá gave us in April 1919, when the Tablets were unveiled in New York. The photos show the participants, a sample of two original tablets and the girls who did the unveiling.

The last years of 'Abdu'l-Bahá's life are incredibly rich and exciting, as the Faith spreads to over 35 countries, when it had been in 15 countries at the start of 'Abdu'l-Bahá's ministry. This map shows the worldwide missions 'Abdu'l-Bahá inspired or sent Bahá'ís on to. The map with details for each entry can be found at The Extraordinary Life of 'Abdu'l-Bahá Part 8.

The British Government confers on 'Abdu'l-Bahá the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire on 27 April 1920, effectively knighting Him as "Sir 'Abdu'l-Bahá 'Abbás."

In December 1919, 'Abdu'l-Bahá receives a letter from the Central Organization for a Durable Peace. He dictates a weighty and extremely long Persian Tablet in response, known the Lawh-i-Láhih, or the Tablet of the Hague, which Shoghi Effendi considers a "Tablet of far-reaching importance." The photo below depicts Participants of the World Congress for Peace held in 1913 in The Hague.

In 1921, 'Abdu'l-Bahá receives a deeply spiritual letter from one of the world's foremost scientists, Dr. Auguste Forel. 'Abdu'l-Bahá responds with a fascinating and masterful 4,000 word Tablet in Persian which He reveals on September 21, 1921, just two months before His passing.

Shoghi Effendi will later refer to the Tablet to Dr. Auguste Forel as "one of the most weighty the Master ever wrote."

28 November 1921

THE ASCENSION OF 'ABDU'L-BAHÁ

'Abdu'l-Bahá returning from Bahjí along the coast in his carriage, driven by the faithful Isfándiyár, in October 1921, one month before His passing.

'Abdu'l–Bahá carrying the coffin of a believer, ten days before His passing;

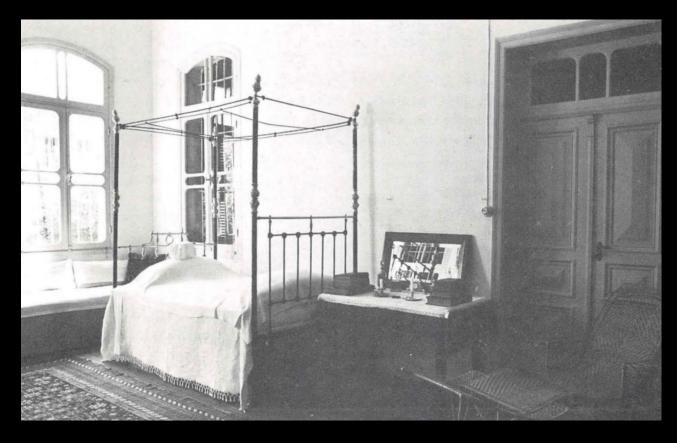

The last photograph of 'Abdu'l-Bahá walking towards the Pilgrim House.

The last Tablet of 'Abdu'l–Bahá, addressed to the German Bahá'ís.

ای باران با دفای عبدالبها، مستروسیں بوش این اردوشدند وادمغان خوشی درنها بت طراوت ولیل ل سد آوردند وآن بشارت مجت وإحفت وانجذاب إجبا بنادمجت المد ازابن خربي خابت مترت حال كرامحدنه فيوضات ملكوت بسى بشابة ابرمبارى فتسليم استوكارت داستروطرم منوده وطراوت ولطافت يخشية اخباني سبوث شدندكه ورمكوت التردخ سندنه وازقيت ابدته بهره ويضيب كرفنند وروز روز درتر في مستنه الم باران آلهه درایتجان فالی بیج جزرددامی م^{رارد} میتخن ایامی جند مرکن بی شجه سیایید و چاقب سندرخوانش زرطبغات زاب مقرم بابيذ زحركتي وزركتي وت نبتجه وترى الآم زمركاني تمامه بهدر فته ولكن ابناء كموت در شنزار هناف تحى مياف الله كر خرمها نابه والمالأبه مبض وبركت بانى المه حيات امتيزتي ونمت سرمة يجرسد وازافن كمكوت مانتدستها وعلىكراليها. الأنبى ٢٥ نوفبر أأأ

The room of 'Abdu'l-Bahá, where He passes away from this world at one thirty in the morning on November 28, 1921, one hundred years ago, after having lived a perfectly exemplary life for 77 years.

The cable sent by Bahíyyih Khánum, the Greatest Holy Leaf and sister of 'Abdu'l–Bahá on the day of 'Abdu'l–Bahá's passing, informing the world of the devastating news. Some notables arrive for the funeral procession. In attendance will be the British Commissioner for Palestine and the Mufti of Haifa.

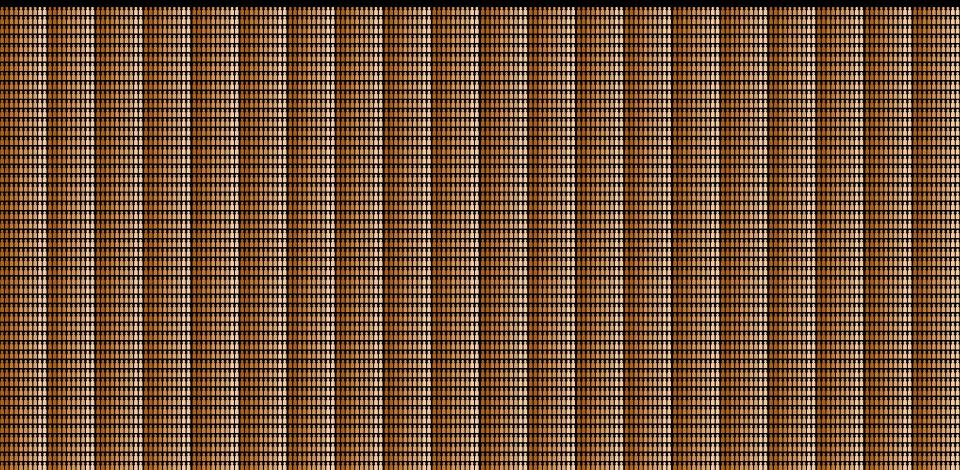

The casket containing the sacred remains of 'Abdu'l–Bahá is carried out of the Master's house on the shoulder of pallbearers. There will be many pallbearers relaying each other through the funeral route to the Shrine of the Báb.

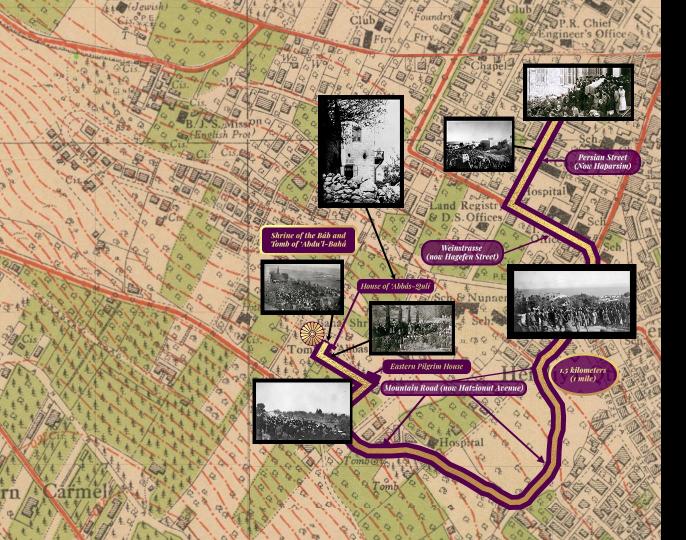

The casket has left the Master's House (in the background) and is heading uphill on Persian Street towards Weinstrasse, or Vine Street (now Hagefen Street).

This is a crowd of ten thousand people. The funeral of 'Abbas Effendi, as He was known in Palestine, was an unprecedented event of unity among Muslims, Christians, Jews, and Druze, all present to honor the "Father of the Poor" and a father-figure to many of them, over the six decades 'Abdu'l-Bahá lived in Palestine and served its people.

This is an exact map of the funeral route, which started from Persian Street, turned left on Weinstrasse, then right onto Mountain Road until the procession reached the entrance road to the Shrine of the Báb.

Credit: Michael Day, Journey to a Mountain.

The funeral procession has arrived in front of the Shrine of the Báb. This photograph shows a group of men and boys who have climbed on the roof of the Shrine. Bahá'ís will not speak at the funeral. Only British authorities. Christians, Muslims, and Jews will give eulogies, perhaps no better testament to the fact 'Abdu'l-Bahá, or 'Abbás Effendi as they all knew Him, belonged to all.

The passing of 'Abdu'l-Bahá is world news. These 67 clippings are a very small sample of the articles and obituaries that were published following 'Abdu'l-Bahá's death.

'Abdu'l-Bahá's lifelong love for the poor continued after His own physical death. For the seven days of the wake, between 100 -150 of the poor were fed daily, and on the seventh day after His passing, wheat was distributed in 'Abdu'l-Bahá's name to 700 of the poor. In this rare photo, we can see individuals walking away, weighed down by 'Abdu'l-Bahá's wheat, a powerful image.

Photo: United States National Bahá'í Archives

2019 - 2021

THE SHRINE OF 'ABDU'L-BAHÁ

The structure that is envisaged in the design seeks to honour 'Abdu'l-Bahá's unique position as the Centre of the Covenant. and to reflect at once His lofty station and His humility. It creates a space of immense sacredness, to which pilgrims and visitors will be drawn for the purpose of prayer and meditation.

> The Universal House of Justice, Letter dated 20 September 2019

This should be unlike any other building. It seeks to manifest 'Abdu'l-Baha's selflessness, wisdom, openness, acceptance, and kindness towards all people, to embody His love for gardens and nature, and to reflect His progressive and forward-looking approach.

Hossein Amanat, Architect

The immense and lofty majesty of the entrance, combined with the very humble, understated, flat profile of the Shrine, invisible at a distance, unlike a cathedral, perfectly illustrate the Universal House of Justice's description that the Shrine should "reflect at once His lofty station and His humility."

The groundbreaking design (immensely majestic up close, invisible at a distance) embodies what architect Hossein Amanat terms 'Abdu'l-Bahá's "progressive and forward-looking approach."

'Abdu'l-Bahá's Shrine literally gives life: the entire roof of the structure is a garden with plants, shrubs, trees, and flowers, which embody what Mr. Amanat calls 'Abdu'l-Bahá's "selflessness, wisdom, openness, acceptance, and kindness towards all people" and "His love for gardens and nature."

A graphic-rendering film of the Shrine follows in the last slide of this presentation.

SLIDESHOW CREDITS

Slideshow designed by Violetta Zein, adapted from the online chronology The Extraordinary Life of 'Abdu'l-Bahá she created for The Utterance Project on the occasion of the Centenary of the Ascension of 'Abdu'l-Bahá.

Thank you to Joe Paczkowski, Michael V. Day, Ismael Velasco, Mona Grieser, Rob Stauffer, and Rochan Mavaddat for suggestions on improvement

PHOTO CREDITS

Slide 1: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community. Slide 2: Collage from images used in title slides from this presentation, see respective images for attribution. Slide 3: Map by Violetta Zein; Original map: 1850 map of Persia, Arabia and Afghanistan by Samuel Augustus Mitchell. Wikimedia Commons. Slide 4: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community. Slide 5: By Internet Archive Book Images - page for image; No restrictions. Slide 6: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community. Slide 7: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community. Slide 8: Image from "The First Telegraph Message and Its Author" from The Electrical Engineer, August 19, 1891. Slide g. Baháĭ Media Bank, Copyright © Baháï International Community. Slide 10: Baháï Media Bank, Copyright © Baháï International Community. Slide 11: Wikimedia Commons, Majlis Research Center. Etela't Newspaper. Slide 12: Shahre Farang Website Slide 13: Bahá'í Historical Facts. Slide 14: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community. Slide 15: © Livius.org | Jona Lendering. Used with permission. Slide 16: Map by Violetta Zein; Original map: 1850 map of Persia, Arabia and Afghanistan by Samuel Augustus Mitchell. Wikimedia Commons. Slide 17: First image: Bahá'i Media Bank, Copyright 🖾 Bahá'i International Community.; Second image: The Life of Bahá'u'lláh: A Photographic Narrative Website. Photo Credit: Ted Cardell, 1952. Slide 18: Left image: Old Iragi Pictures Twitter Account. Right image: Folktales of Irag by E. S. Stevens, Arnold Wilson Slide 19: Wikimedia Commons Slide 20: Photograph by D. Michaïlides, courtesy of Istanbul Üniversitesi, Nadir Eserler Kütüphanesi.

Slide 21: Map by Violetta Zein. Original map: 1860 map of Persia, Turkey in Asia, Afghanistan, and Beloochistan by Samuel Augustus Mitchell. Wikimedia Commons.

Slide 22: The Dawn-Breakers.

Slide 23: Photo courtesy of Istanbul Üniversitesi, Nadir Eserler Kütüphanesi

Slide 24: Original graphic by Violetta Zein. Base map: 1865 map of "Turquie d'Europe" (European Turkey) by Adolphe Hippolyte Dufour. Wikimedia Commons

Slide 25: Photograph by D. Michaïlides, courtesy of Istanbul Üniversitesi, Nadir Eserler Kütüphanesi.

Slide 26: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community.

Slide 27: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community.

Slide 28: Map by Violetta Zein. Original map: 1860 map of Persia, Turkey in Asia, Afghanistan, and Beloochistan by Samuel Augustus Mitchell. Wikimedia Commons. Image of steamer: Wikimedia Commons.

Slide 29; Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community.

Slide 30: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community.

Slide 31: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community.

Slide 32: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community.

Slide 33: Left photo: Baha'i Teachings: Sacrifice and The Book of Laws.

Center photo: Baháí Media Bank, Copyright © Baháí International Community, Right photo: Photo by Caroline Lüdecke from the website Baháí Chronicles.

Slide 34: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community.

Slide 35: First image: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community.; Second image: Bernard Dichter, early 1900s. The Life of Bahá'u'lláh: A Photographic Narrative.

Slide 36: Adib Taherzadeh: Revelation of Bahá'u'lláh Volume III

Slide 37: Left image: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community.

Right image: State of Israel. Wikimedia Commons.

Slide 38: A Crown of Beauty: The Bahá'í Faith & The Holy Land, by Eunice Braun & Hugh Chance, George Ronald.

Slide 39: A Crown of Beauty: The Bahá'í Faith & The Holy Land, by Eunice Braun & Hugh Chance, George Ronald.

Slide 40: All three images: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community.

Slide 41: Left image: .F. Jarvis, publishers. Library of Congress. Top right image: Days of Palestine. Bottom right image: Worldwide Community of Baha'u'llah.

Slide 42: Old Beirut Blog (website closed). Accessed 2021/01/09.

Slide 43: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community.

Slide 44: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community.

Slide 45: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community.

Slide 46: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community.

Slide 47: Images for numbers 1, 2, and 3 are attributed under slides 48, 50 and 52, respectively.

Slide 48: Bahaipedia

Slide 49: Left image: Brilliant Star Magazine. Center image: from the film Exemplar, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community.

Bottom right image: Bahaipedia

Slide 50: A Báhá'i Glossary.

Slide 51: Top row, left to right, First image: Baha'i Blog, Second image: A Báhá'i Glossary, Third Image: A Báhá'i Glossary, Fourth Image: A Báhá'i Glossary, Bottom Left image: Worldwide Community of Baha'u'llah.

Slide 52: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community.

Slide 53: Top left: Map by Violetta Zein. Original map: 1860 map of Persia, Turkey in Asia, Afghanistan, and Beloochistan by Samuel Augustus Mitchell. Wikimedia Commons. Top right: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community. Bottom center: Michael V. Day website, photograph Copyright © Bahá'í International Community. Bottom right: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community.

Slide 54: Wikimedia Commons.

Slide 55: Adib Taherzadeh, The Revelation of Bahá'u'lláh, Volume 4, page 292.

Slide 56: Left image: Wikimedia Commons. Collage images: Top left: Wikimedia Commons Large central image: Wikimedia Commons. Bottom right: Wikimedia Commons. Map by Violetta Zein. Original map: 1905 Mohammedan Countries map. Wikimedia Commons.

Slide 57: All photos from Baha'i Media.

Slide 58: Top, left to right; First image: Wikimedia Commons, Second image: Library of Congress, Third image: Flickr, Bottom Left; Map by Violetta Zein. Original map: 1910 United States Bureau of Plant Industry map of Agricultural and botanical explorations in Palestine by Aaron Aaronsohn. Wikimedia Commons, Bottom right: Library of Congress.

Slide 59: Wikimedia Commons.

Slide 60: Collage of newspaper articles courtesy of the National Bahá'í Archives of the United States.

Slide 61: Collage from 27 images of The Extraordinary Life of 'Abdu'l-Bahá, Part V, Part VI, and Part VII.

Slide 62: Map by Violetta Zein. Original map: 1910 map entitled "The World: Colonial Possessions and Commercial Highways" Edited by Sir Adolphus William Ward and others. Wikimedia Commons. Slide 63: Left image: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community.' Top right: Baha'i Teachings. Bottom right first image: 239 Days. Bottom right second image: United States National Bahá'í Archives. Invitation: Baha'i Teachings.

Slide 64: Top row, left image: Photo graciously provided by the Bahá'ís de Picardie: Brève HIstorique des Bahá'ís de Picardie. Center image: Library of Congress. Right image: Wikimedia Commons. Bottom left image: The Cowkeeper's Wish. Bottom right image: Edin Photo.

Slide 65: Left image: United States National Bahá'í Archives. Top right images, Top left and bottom left: Images from the program of the Eighteenth Annual Lake Mohonk Conference on International Arbitration, front page and page 8, from The Internet Archive. Photo of Dr. Christian Lange: Nobel Prize Website. Photo of Dr. Albert Cobat: Nobel Price Website. Newspaper clipping from Newspapers.com.

Slide 66: Both images, United States National Bahá'í Archives.

Slide 67: Top row, left to right: First image: Bahá'í World News Service, © Bahá'í International Community. Second image: Instagram. ParisZigZag Third image: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community. Fourth Image: Courtesy of Charleen Maghzi-Ader. Bottom row: First image: 'Abdu'l-Bahá visits the West.

Second image: Third image: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community.

Slide 68: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community.

Slide 69: Attribution for these 17 photos of Persian, Ottoman and Egyptian diplomats are available, with bios from The Extraordinary Life of 'Abdu'l-Bahá Part VII, with a quick search for either the name of the individual, or the term "Prominent Personalities."

Slide 70: Large photo on the right: Wikimedia Commons, Top left photo: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community. Bottom left photo 1: Photograph courtesy of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, used with permission.

Bottom left photo 2: Courtesy of Ágnes Ambró, © National Spiritual Assembly of the Bahá'ís of Hungary.

Slide 71: Collage of newspaper articles courtesy of the National Bahá'í Archives of the United States.

Slide 72: Right: National Bahá'í Archives of the United States. Left: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community.

Slide 73: Graphic by Violetta Zein.

Slide 74: Attributions for 128 photos of prominent personalities who met with 'Abdu'l-Baha between 1910-1911 in Egypt, France, America, England, and Hungary are available with a search for "Prominent personalities" in , Part VI, and Part VI, along with short bios for each.

Slide 75: Wikimedia Commons.

Slide 76: Library of Congress.

Slide 77: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community.

Slide 78: Both images: Photograph by E. M. Newman in "The Spell of the Holy Land,"

- Slide 79: Newspaper clipping from Newspapers.com. Photo: Wikimedia Commons
- Slide 80: All photos from the Library of Congress "Locust Plague of 1915" 57-photo-album

Slide 81: Flickr.

Slide 82: Collage of photos from Library of Congress and Wikimedia Commons.

Slide 83: Wikimedia Commons.

Slide 84: Map by Violetta Zein. Original map: Map of the World in 1922 Drawn with Van der Grinten projection. Scale on equator 1 inch = 625 miles (1 : 39,600,000). Wikimedia Commons, Slide 85: 'Abdu'l-Bahá in the Holy Land.

Slide 86: Left image: Copyright © Bahá'í International Community. Right image: Collage of pilgrims to the Holy Land in 1919-1921 from various sources.

Slide 87: Top image: Two bottom images National Baháï Archives of the United States from Brent Poirier's blog The Tablets of the Divine Plan.

Slide 88: Map by Violetta Zein. Original map: Map of the World in 1922 Drawn with Van der Grinten projection. Scale on equator 1 inch = 625 miles (1: 39,600,000). Wikimedia Commons.

Slide 89: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community.

Slide 90: Bahá'í World News Service.

Slide 91: Alchetron.

Slide 92: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community.

Slide 93: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community.

Slide 94: First and second photo: National Bahá'í Archives of the United States. Third photo: Courtesy of Alexander Meinhard.

Slide 95: Star of the West Volume 12, Number 15 (12 December 1921).

Slide 96: Star of the West Volume 12, Number 15 (12 December 1921).

Slide 97: National Bahá'í Archives of the United States.

Slide 98: National Bahá'í Archives of the United States.

Slide 99: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community.

Slide 100: Original graphic by Violetta Zein.

Slide 101: Map by Violetta Zein. Original map: Open Palestine Maps.

Slide 102: National Bahá'í Archives of the United States.

Slide 103: Newspaper clipping from Newspapers.com.

Slide 104: National Bahá'í Archives of the United States.

Slide 105: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community. Slide 106: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community. Slide 107: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community. Slide 108: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community.

Slide 109: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community.

Slide 110: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community.

Slide 111: Bahá'í Media Bank, Copyright © Bahá'í International Community.